

With Balloting Records All Shattered, Democrats Settle to Endurance Test

McAdoo Drops Below 500-
Mark Set Last Night
Smith Still Holds.

DELEGATES SEEM LISTLESS

McAdoo's Dark Horse Leaders Seem
Unwilling to Prevent
Compromise Between McAdoo and Smith
That Might Cause Sudden Stampede.

By United Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 3.—Having broken the record of the famous Baltimore convention when it took its 48th ballot for a Presidential nominee shortly after 1 o'clock today the Democratic National Convention settled down this afternoon for a real war.

William G. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith were in a hopeless deadlock. Through ballot after ballot their totals did not vary more than a fraction with McAdoo leading at 483 1-2 votes and Smith second at 321.

Nominations by starvation now appeared to be the only solution of the convention. The Smith and other anti-McAdoo forces are determined to starve McAdoo out, not only as to votes but as to delegates, and it also may come to the point of starving the whole convention out as to food.

In the 49th ballot Senator Sam Ralston of Indiana began to pick up outside votes. Mississippi gave him 20 and Illinois added five.

Rockwell, McAdoo's manager, said the McAdoo forces had no intention at this time of entering the conference of managers suggested by Chairman Hall, to eliminate the candidates and get a nomination.

49th ballot—Smith, 330 1-2; McAdoo, 483 1-2; John W. Davis, 63 1-2; Underwood, 42; Ralston, 25; Glass, 25; Robinson, 45; Cox, 54; Ritchie, 18 1-2; Governor Davis, 3; Sanbury, 5; Owen, 4; Walsh, 1.

50th ballot—Smith, 330 1-2; McAdoo, 483 1-2; John W. Davis, 63 1-2; Underwood, 42; Ralston, 25; Glass, 25; Robinson, 45; Cox, 54; Ritchie, 18 1-2; Governor Davis, 3; Sanbury, 5; Owen, 4; Walsh, 1.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 3.—The battle of ballots was resumed in the Democratic convention today when the 49th attempt to select a Presidential candidate failed to produce a result. McAdoo dropped below the 500 mark which he established last night and scored but 413 4-10. Governor Smith had around his usual vote with 319 1-10.

Many delegates were absent. The galleries were sparsely filled and an air of indifference was apparent. It was also evident that the McAdoo forces were maneuvering dark horses to block any attempt of McAdoo and Smith to reach through to a driving finish.

The McAdoo forces have been claiming that they can have the solid Arkansas delegation whenever they want it. To counteract this the Smith leaders were circulating a report that Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas would be an acceptable compromise candidate. As an apparent move to give Robinson a trial Oklahoma shifted its 10 votes to the Arkansas senator on the third ballot of the day.

This convention has passed the record set four years ago when nominated Cox on the 48th ballot when the 48th was cast at 11:50. There was no change in the vote.

Meanwhile Tom Taggart of Indiana was holding occasional conferences at his place in the Moore delegation. He declared there was no chance of Ralston being brought out until the convention had convinced itself that neither Smith nor McAdoo could be nominated. The Oklahoma vote for Robinson, it is learned, is a deal proposition to keep Arkansas away from McAdoo.

The convention was proceeding during the morning before practically empty galleries. There had been numerous threats to clear the galleries if the convention opened. Today they had cleared themselves.

The delegates on the floor were responding automatically to roll calls, the cheering had departed and the galleries were in faint hollow tones. It was obvious that for the present, at least, no one had any intention of making a marked shift.

There was no apparent floor work going on by Smith or McAdoo workers. The delegates were discussing lack of sleep and the rapid reducing of delegates during the last few days. Many delegates, broke, have started for home and alternates are now in their place.

43rd ballot—Smith, 319 1-10; McAdoo, 483 4-10; John W. Davis, 71.

MATCH SETS OFF GASOLINE IN SHOP

The flying head of a match struck to light a cigar caused a fire in the jewelry shop of A. Warshaw of 228 West Crawford avenue—the Nite 35. The property—last evening an loss of $300 to the proprietor in fixtures and equipment—damaged. Salvators Maricovich had brought a watch in for repairs. The proprietor was at work at his bench and beside him was some gasoline. Unwittingly, the watch struck a match and the flaming head dropped into the gasoline.

Maricovich's clothing was burned in the explosion but he escaped injury, as did Warshaw, who dashed out a rear door. The firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

Eight Barrels of Of Beer Seized By Policemen

Eight and one-eighth barrels of real beer were confiscated today by police, when Officer L. S. Hicks arrested Wayne Guyann of Scottdale in Robbins street, who was driving a large truck. According to Guyann's story in police court, the beer was to be used in celebrating Scottdale's 50th anniversary, tomorrow. He claimed that the beer was transferred to his truck from another near Limestone Hill.

Guyann pleaded guilty and was given the usual maximum sentence, $100 or 90 days. Two charges were placed against him, illegal possession of intoxicating liquor and illegal transportation of liquor. He paid $200.

Rev. Glenn Carpenter Aiding Sufferers in Ohio Storm District

Word has been received from Rev. Glenn Carpenter, pastor of the Christian Church at Vandalia, who is at his former home in Lorain, Ohio, that the recent storm at that place removed the roof of his house. His immediate friends escaped injury.

Rev. Carpenter is busy in helping to extend aid to the people whose homes were destroyed or have otherwise suffered from the effects of the terrible storm. He expects to remain on the ground for two weeks yet.

The regularly monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Rev. Carpenter's church will be held this evening in the church parlor at 7:30 o'clock.

North End, With Late Rally, Wins Over West Siders

The North End playgrounds baseball team, tying the score in the ninth inning of a game played at Fayette Field this morning, defeated the West Side in the tenth round by a score of 5-2.

The North Enders tied things up at 5-5 by scoring twice in the ninth. In the tenth the West Side came back with two and then their opponents tallied three times, winning in that frame.

Colborn and Ennis "worked" for the West Side with Polser catching. Micker and Carroll were the North End battery. Next Tuesday morning South Side and West Side play.

Compensation for Dream Blasted Comes to Champ Clark's Daughter When Bryan is Driven Off Platform

NEW YORK, July 3.—Twelve years ago a young woman with dreams of having the White House as her home and her father as the head of the Nation followed day after day the balloting in a Democratic convention where her father had a national struggle the highest honor in the land seemed within her father's grasp.

Then a wretched spirit descended. The dream was broken and in the cold light of a political day the young woman saw her father hurried from the heights he had reached and saw him come back to her crushed and weary, the realization of his greatest ambition gone forever.

This was in Baltimore in 1912. The woman was Genevieve Clark daughter of Champ Clark of Missouri, speaker of the House and leading candidate for the nomination that year. The other figure in the drama was William Jennings Bryan. He arose in the convention and attacked Clark as being an instrument of Wall street, the Morgans, the Ryans and the National Trust. Clark was beaten and Woodrow Wilson was nominated.

But there is a law of compensation and in the heat of the fight yesterday when Bryan again took the convention platform to speak of candidates the young woman who had dreamed 12 years ago stood directly in front of the platform from which he spoke. She heard him flinch his speech, and with the flourish of the fan he waved the stump of his cane and said "Gill, Gill, Gill." His voice drowned by the boom and rumble of galleries and delegates hostile to him and the presiding officer unable to still the outcry.

The Smith men say they will refuse to recognize it and they have enough to vote it. Champ Clark had a majority for several ballots at Baltimore but was ultimately beaten by Wilson so there is precedent for ignoring a majority vote.

No Cohesion Between Them
But They Hope for Drift of Votes Their Way.

MAY BE 20 MORE BALLOTS

Before Either McAdoo or Smith Will Concede Defeat and Release Their Delegates; Probability of Compromise
Conference Becoming Remote.

Special Dispatch by David Lawrence
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 3.—The endurance of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention knows no bounds. Most of them are so determined upon their own candidates that the convention will probably sit over the Fourth of July and a record number of ballots will be taken.

Little change was anticipated for today's voting though here and there the McAdoo camp expected defections. Oklahoma started the ball rolling by voting for Senator Robinson of Arkansas. Other states are inclined to compliment Robinson too and in the parlance of the convention, after Robinson has had his "rid," there will be a tendency to get behind Senator Ralston of Indiana to see what strength he may develop.

Inasmuch as Oklahoma left the fold to vote for former Senator Owen and to come back to McAdoo last night, the supporters of the former secretary of the treasury were not in the least perturbed today. "We can have Oklahoma back whenever we need their 20 votes," said Thomas B. Love, the McAdoo leader from Texas. Certainly the fluctuations of Missouri and Oklahoma have not bud the significance they would otherwise have if the vote were permanently kept in one place.

Talk of a conference of representatives of the leading candidates still continues but Judge Davis Rockwell, the McAdoo manager, said today he would enter a conference only if McAdoo were given the same proportion of voting strength in such a council as he had delegates in the convention itself. This is only another way of saying that Rockwell would not compromise, but would make another effort to dictate the selection of McAdoo.

From all this the reader can infer that the two score or more of ballots which have been taken have not in the least worn down the two leaders and that it may take another 20 ballots before either Smith or McAdoo will concede defeat and the ready talk compromise.

The real reason for the deadlock in this convention, however, is not merely the tug of war between McAdoo and Smith but the obstinacy of the favorite sons. Virginia favoring Senator Carter Glass, Arkansas favoring Senator Robinson, Indiana with Senator Ralston, Alabama with Senator Underwood, Maryland with Governor Ritchie and Ohio with James M. Cox insist upon sticking to their own men without helping either of the two leaders. Ordinarily in a convention of so many ballots the favorite sons are deserted at an early stage of the game because it is apparent that their respective candidates cannot get anywhere.

In this convention, however, the strength of McAdoo and Smith having for several weeks been disclosed, the favorite sons think they have a good chance. So they are waiting out the leaders and trying to make the McAdoo and Smith delegates go to them. There is no cohesion between the favorite sons but a common purpose holds them as tightly together as if they had an iron bound agreement in block Smith and McAdoo.

The balloting already has exceeded the record of the Baltimore and San Francisco conventions and probably will go to 60 ballots before there is a decision. The best proof of the character of the deadlock which is holding back a nomination is the vote on the forty-fifth ballot. The combined vote of McAdoo and Smith amounted to 502 1-2, which leaves 285 1-2 votes among the favorite sons. McAdoo with 487 needed 218 votes to reach two-thirds while Governor Smith with 319 needed 413.

The strategy of the McAdoo forces has been to attain a majority which is

A black and white line drawing of a woman in a long, flowing dress with a wide collar and cuffs, standing with her hands clasped in front of her. The drawing is simple and elegant, with a focus on the silhouette and the texture of the fabric. The woman is wearing a headband or tiara and has her hair styled in a bun. The background is plain, and the overall style is reminiscent of early 20th-century fashion illustrations.

McNeish was chosen worthy patron; Mrs. Woods Kroll of Greensburg, assistant worthy patron; Mrs. A. T. Collins, worthy patron; and Mrs. Howard Stoner, assistant worthy patron.

Fourth class $100.
The Cooper brothers, who were arrested Monday night when they went after stills that had been hidden under an outbuilding in Smithfield street, were arraigned before Judge William M. Overholt last night. The elder, 20 years old, was fined $100. The other, 15, was discharged.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Selmon of Washington street are the parents of a son born at the Memorial Hospital on Wednesday.

New Postmaster on Job.
William Overholt took charge of the postoffice Tuesday. C. A. Graul, who has been postmaster for the past four years, said that for the present he would not take up any kind of business. Mr. Overholt, who has for a number of years conducted a hardware store in Main street, has disposed of this to the M. R. George Hardware Company. He has also been burgess for the past term and will resign that office. Mr. Overholt has been a staunch Republican and carries the best wishes of those with the interest of the party at heart to his new office.

Heaviest Cut at Furnace Plants Since May 31 Brings Total to Lowest Point Yet

Merchant Operators Were Less Severe in Their Curtailment.

FIRST HALF 40% BEHIND

(From The Weekly Courier)
A cut of 10,800 tons by the furnace interests and 2,100 tons by the merchant interests, or a total of 12,900 tons, brought coke production down to 61,810 tons last week, which is much the lowest level reached during the existing depression and 8,400 tons below that for the corresponding week in 1925 when the trade was struggling through the last preceding period of extraordinary dullness. Last week's cut by the furnace operators was the severest since week of May 31, by merchants the heaviest since May 10.

While this comparison serves to show the extremity to which the trade has been forced by industrial conditions, it is not as striking as contrast with a year ago.

During the first half of 1925, production had reached 7,397,150 tons, or at a rate closely approaching 15,000,000 tons for the twelve months. To June 30 this year the production had aggregated only 4,405,820 tons, a falling off of 2,991,330 tons, or 40 per cent. from 1925. Unless this rate is materially increased during the second half the total will not exceed 9,000,000 tons, below which the region has fallen but twice since 1898.

The effect of the change on the two producing interests stands out conspicuously in the following tabulation:

	1925.	Active.	Per.	Produce.
Merchant	1,035	1,035	100%	714,420
Furnace	14,875	14,875	100%	1,982,730
Region	15,910	15,910	100%	2,697,150

The foregoing shows that between the two periods the number of active merchant ovens has decreased by 1,004, the furnace ovens by 11,398 and the region by 12,402. Tonnage has been proportionately affected, the merchant decline having been 77,510 tons, or 7.5 per cent; furnace, 184,800 tons, or 9.3 per cent; the total, 262,310 tons, or 9.9 per cent.

The H. C. Frick Coke Company continues to employ the three well-known and effective restrictions on output: Blowing out, banking and abbreviating the running time-schedule. During last week this interest blew out 385 ovens and banked 620 for the entire week. At the 12 active plants one ran one day, two ran two days, four ran four days, one ran five days and four made full time.

The merchants, as usual, maintained a better schedule, only four being out to four days, 10 to five, the remainder making six.

Production, both merchant and furnace, will likely be still further reduced this week. The strike at the Halsey plants will prevent full time by the leading operator and the observance of Independence Day will cut one day from all operations.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, June 26 was 61,810 tons, divided between the two districts as follows: Connelville, 34,510, a decrease of 11,200 tons; Lower Connelville, 27,300, a decrease of 800 tons, or a total decrease of 12,000 tons, as compared with a total decrease of 1,250 tons during the week immediately preceding.

By interests the production was: Furnace, 24,800, a loss of 10,300 tons; merchant, 36,910, a loss of 2,100 tons, as against losses of 1,100 and 180 tons respectively during the week ended June 21.

The increase of 829 in the number of ovens out of blast was offset by the decrease of two producing interests, the furnace operators blowing out 385 and the merchants 244. The furnace change was all at plants of the H. C. Frick Coke Company and included 285 out of Continental No. 1 and 100 out at Trotter.

The merchant changes comprised 300 out at Ryers, 150 out at Allison No. 2 and 50 out at Bearight, a total of 450. At Grinn No. 1 30 were blown in and 70 at Thompson No. 2, a total of 100, making the net merchant decrease 344.

Production by the merchant and furnace interests and the total compared with the corresponding week in 1925 is shown herewith:

Like Son, Like Father, in Maughan Family.

GEORGE E. MAUGHAN

"It used to be like father, like son," but now it's "like son, like father," declared George E. Maughan, 44, of Minneapolis, Minn., father of Lieutenant Russell Maughan, who flew from New York to San Francisco in 23 hours, as he stepped from the cockpit after making his first airplane flight.

Increase in Coal Exports.
Exports of bituminous coal from the United States during May amounting to 1,531,740 long tons show a decided increase as compared with the 1,453,935 tons shipped in April and in fact, with the exception of exports during February, were the largest monthly exports during the present year.

The effect of the change on the two producing interests stands out conspicuously in the following tabulation:

	1925.	Active.	Per.	Produce.
Merchant	1,035	1,035	100%	714,420

Women Who Look Old

In many cases they are not old in years, but because they are overworked, over-tired, nervous and run-down, all ailments have developed peculiar to their sex and this condition makes them look years older than they actually are. Such women should consider the remarkable Teco-oid, held by Lydia B. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent canvass among over one hundred and twenty-one thousand women who had used it, ninety-eight out of every one hundred women reported benefit from its use.—Advertiser.

Tenderness makes ham good

To have the teeth go through the Ham as easily as they cut the bread is the delight of a "White Lily" Ham sandwich.

Young porkers mean tender Ham and every "White Lily" Ham is guaranteed to be less than one year old—that is why these Hams are so uniformly excellent.

Cured and smoked in fragrant old hickory smoke by the "White Lily" perfect process—made delicious enough for your permanent adoption.

Demand "White Lily" Hams and Bacon—they are always good.

Ancient People
The Boeotians were the inhabitants of a division of ancient Greece, having Thesbe for its capital. The Athenians regarded the Boeotians with contempt, as lacking appreciation for the culture and refinement of Attica. The Boeotians were devoted to agriculture and pastoral pursuits, and in the opinion of the Athenians were as thick and dull as their own atmosphere. The Boeotians, Boeotia produced Hesiod, Pindar, Plutarch, Epaminondas and Pelopidas. In the days of Epaminondas Thesbe was the leading city of Greece.—Kansas City Star.

Roman Arithmetic

The Romans had no symbols to indicate mathematical processes and operations. Originally they expressed every word and operation in words of full length. Their mathematical calculations were never simplified further than to abbreviate centum, 100, into C; mille, 1000, into M and so on. Figuring in the days of Caesar was cumbersome. Practically all calculations were performed on the abacus, an apparatus resembling the Chinese swan-pan or the bead-and-frame of the now used in kindergarten work.

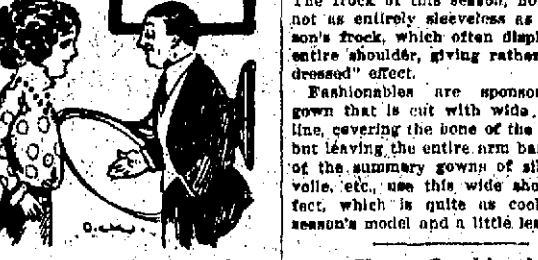

Whale's Small Throat

The blue whale, the largest animal alive today, reaching a length in excess of 80 feet, with a mouth big enough to swallow a man could stand therein, has a throat but about eight inches in diameter. This is one of the whales whose all of which feed upon minute crustaceans, especially the little red shrimp which is about three-fourths of an inch long. As much as four barrels of this shrimp have been found in the stomach of a blue whale, which even then was not full.

CAPSTAN WINS OVER FAIRCHANCE, 15 TO 1

Glass House Team Makes 17 Safe Hits Against Six for Visitors.

AT SMITHFIELD, FOURTH

Swatting 17 safes and chalking up 18 runs, the Capstan Independents easily outplayed the Fairchance Independents last evening at South Connellsville. Baker, formerly a twirler on the Connellsville Independents, pitched his first game for Capstan. He pitched his last game, being forced to retire when he was hit on the arm by a heated ball. George Clawson finished the game and allowed two hits. "Chip" Francis featured for the day, catching both fielding and batting honors.

The Capstan team will go to Smithfield tomorrow where it will play the Smithfield Independents. Smithfield boasts of one of the strongest teams in the coke region, being composed of majority of former Collier stars. Jim Magarity, Yellow, Good and Timmoch are among the Collier players now with Smithfield. Alexander will twirl against Timmoch in one of the games. McGowan is the other. His opponent on the mound is not known. The Capstan squad is expected to report at the B. & O. Y. M. C. A. tomorrow morning at 3 o'clock. The team will leave at that time for Smithfield.

A return game with Smithfield will be played at the South Connellsville grounds Saturday evening.

UNIONTOWN TAKES CLOSE GAME FROM SCOTSDALE TEAM

Smith's wild throw with Seigfried on third base and the score tied in the last of the 10th, permitted the Uniontown Mikes to snap the second tilt from the Scottdale Independents last evening at Uniontown in another exciting contest between the two teams. Scottdale outlasted Uniontown, 13 to 7, and also elected two homers to its credit, but still the Mikes managed to win. Carroll pitched wonderful ball, allowing the Mikes but seven hits in 10 innings. Errors and extra-base hits paved way for the victory. Bell began the game for the Mikes but was lifted in third inning after the mill towners had scored six runs. Bill Helmick went on the mound and pitched good ball. Scottdale ran wild on the bases, always putting the home team in a dangerous position.

Scottdale opened with two runs, but the Mikes chalked up four in the first frame. The mill towners came back with one in the second while the Mikes were held scoreless. Three more runs were chalked by Scottdale in the third and the Uniontown outfit counted twice putting the game at an even score. The tie was broken in the sixth when the Mikes tallied once, but Scottdale tied up again in the seventh. All went well until the 10th when the final tally was scored by the Mikes.

Cubs Develop Star

George Grantham, third baseman for the Chicago Cubs, is playing a whirlwind game this year. Grantham finished badly last year, and many thought he would be returned to the minors, but his work this year makes it certain that he will be one of the bright stars of the team.

Addition to Clairton By-Product Plant Is Now in Operation

The first coke was pushed from the newly installed by-product coke ovens at the Clairton plant of the Carnegie Steel Company last week. The plant had been under construction nearly two years and is the largest of its kind since the building of the original by-product coke plant at Clairton.

The new plant began operation six years to a day from the time the original plant was put into operation. It consists of 61 ovens each and has a capacity to carbonize 8,500 tons of coal a day. It will produce daily 6,000 tons of coke, 55,000,000 cubic feet of gas, 60,000 gallons of tar, 215,000 pounds of ammonium sulphate and 25,000 gallons of benzol products.

With the newly completed addition the by-product plant at Clairton is the largest in the world. The total number of ovens, with the extensions is 1,134.

Miner Workers' Union Sued for $250,000

Suit for $250,000 damages naming the United Mine Workers of America as defendants, has been filed in court at St. Clairsville O., by Edna M. C. Major, widow of John I. Major, who was shot to death June 22, 1922, while employed at the Lafferty mine of the Union Coal Stripping & Mining Company.

The petition is directed against the United Mine Workers of America, John L. Lewis, president, and William Green, secretary, District 6 of the organization, its officers, and Sub-district 6 of District 6 and its officers. Major the petition asserted, came to his death at the hands of union miners.

Further Hearing in "Coking-in-Transit" Case on July 22

Pursuant to the continuance of the hearing held in the complaint of the Rainey-Wood Coke Company against the railroads, commonly called the "coking-in-transit" case, on June 28, the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission has assigned this case for further hearing in Harrisburg on Tuesday July 22, at 2 P. M.

Insurance Credit For Rock Dusting

The application of rock-dusting methods as a means of limiting explosions in coal mines was recently demonstrated at the experimental mine of the Bureau of Mines, Brackenridge, Pa., for representatives from the rating bureau of the Pennsylvania State Compensation Department, the state insurance commissioner's office, and a committee of inspectors from insurance companies. At a meeting held at a later date by these representatives, it was recommended that insurance credit be allowed for rock-dusting in coal mines.

Comparative tests of collecting road and rib dust samples have been made by the Bureau of Mines to determine if there existed any difference in the samples collected by the standard method and by the vacuum cleaner method. All samples were collected in still air and the tests indicated little or no difference in samples collected by these two methods under these conditions.

"MIND OVER MOTOR"—A screen version of Mary Roberts Rinehart's popular story, is the feature picture today.

Eddie Hearne, official starter of the A. A. U. and A. A. A. plays an important role in "Mind Over Motor," the big spectacular automobile racing special. Mr. Hearne has to his credit the distinction of having started off more automobile races than any other man in the world. He has officiated at all the big automobile events in the East, Indianapolis, Los Angeles and other coast cities where races of that sort are hugely popular.

In "Mind Over Motor," Eddie Hearne feels very much at home, for he is called upon to start one of the most spectacular races ever conceived or produced in the history of the motion picture. The script calls for a big race in which a number of death-defying drivers, who, while under salary to a crooked promoter, risk their lives in order to cripple the honest contestants. This situation called for a number of serious stunts, one of which almost resulted in the death of Ralph Graves, who is leading the race. The picture is a big race in which a number of death-defying drivers, who, while under salary to a crooked promoter, risk their lives in order to cripple the honest contestants. This situation called for a number of serious stunts, one of which almost resulted in the death of Ralph Graves, who is leading the race. Friday and Saturday, "Behind Two Guns" will be shown.

The Soisson

"SINNER OR SAINT"—Which appeared today at the Soisson for a three-day attraction presents Betty Lytelle in the leading role.

In this picture, Mde. Lytelle plays the role of a fortune-teller and medium, and the plot hinges on her being unmasked as a beautiful and clever fraud. But before this exposure, the dark room, the weird light, the mysterious raps, create a mood of mystery which emanates from the screen and strikes the beholder.

Of course, the "clients" in the room don't know that there is a switch-board hidden in the house, marked "green lights," "red lights," "two raps," etc., and which is responsible for the "psychic phenomena" they are beholding. They are convinced of the truth of their eyes and ears until the "white lights" are suddenly turned on and reveal the imposture. This dramatic climax to the scene is already the beginning of this unusual picture. It might be added that the apparent ruin of the medium's business turns out to be the salvation of "Mlle. Iris," and how this takes place, is an interesting and colorful movie, as you'll believe when you've seen it.

The Orpheum

"MILE-A-MINUTE ROMEO"—Showing today, Friday and Saturday at the Orpheum, presents Tom Mix in one of the best roles of his screen career.

Demonstrating a decided penchant for thrills, this production is undoubtedly the only one in which Tom Mix exposes his entire bag of equestrian tricks.

The story is by Max Brand, an author who has long been noted for ability in western dramas. It provides Mix with opportunity to display those talents by which he has become so widely recognized.

An erring father, a daughter with romantic aspirations, two villains instead of the customary one, and Tom Mix, form the basis of this production's action. Comedy relief provided in scenes showing a cross-country run staged by Tom Mix.

Betty Jewel, J. Gordon Russell, James Mason, Duke Lee and James Quinn are the principal players. The production was directed by Lambert Hillier.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Name Is Women," presenting Barbara La Marr and other screen favorites will be shown.

INGOT PRODUCTION DURING FIRST HALF WAS 19,500,000 TONS

Verifying the Law of Averages as Applied for Several Years; No Important Developments.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Review will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows: The law of averages has worked out precisely in the matter of steel production in the half year just ended. There was a spectacular increase in mill operating rates in the first two months of the year, to a new record high in the rate of ingot production, and then a no less spectacular decrease.

At one time in the half year ingots were being produced at two and one-half times the rate at another time, towards the close of June.

The half year's ingot production, as nearly as can be estimated, was 19,500,000 tons. With all the stirring it not startling news there has been about steel in the past six months, this was precisely equal to the average rate of production in the two preceding years, 1922 production being 34,669,418 tons and 1923 production, 45,485,956 tons, or 19,500,000 tons per half-year. Production in the first half of last year was about 23,350,000 tons and in the second half about 20,150,000 tons.

At the present rate, ingot production in the second half of this year will be about 10,000,000 tons. By the law of averages it will be a near double this amount. To accomplish the latter, an early upward reaction would be necessary. The individual may choose between the law of averages and prognostications based on current trends, or the lack of them, and the present depressed sentiment in business circles.

Developments in the past week have been of no importance. Current buying has represented about 25 per cent of steel producing capacity, while back-log business in rails and freight car material, good for several months still, represents fully 10 per cent of capacity, pointing to 35 per cent as the minimum or turning point for steel mill operations.

Steel prices as a whole have shown no material change. There is a little deeper shading in sheets by some mills. Cotton ties are understood to be priced at $1.40, unchanged, for the season.

Predicts Turn July 15.

John H. Jones, the well-known Pittsburg coal operator, predicts that a turn for the better in the bituminous coal trade will come after July 15, basing his prediction upon the fact that about that time there will be necessity to replenish the stocks of coal held in reserve by industrial consumers.

COAL MEN URGED TO BROADEN THEIR FIELD OF ACTIVITY

Better to Do That Than to Supply Cheap Coal to Those Who Do.

ARE MANY OPPORTUNITIES

In all classifications of industry coal is still rated only among the mines and quarries. That is, it has no other line of activity that is recognized. In essence, coal is merely a quarrying industry. Thus, the major and almost its sole activities are confined to extracting a natural resource from the place in the ground. This is primitive in a very large sense. It is extremely crude.

Essentially it is subject to definite limitations upon possible profits because the people will pay and can afford to pay but little for the crude work necessary to extract a rough material from the ground. Coal mining, therefore, so long as it remains a mere quarrying industry, must have a great limitation fixed by what is proved possible by the quarriers or stonecutters and of gravel.

However, the quarrying of coal is but the beginning of many possible developments in the coal industry, declares the Mining Congress Journal. There is the possibility of expanding into the chemical industry. The chemists have already proved that coal contains at least 1,500 separate products, each one of which can be extracted in a mechanical way and sold commercially. The Germans have built a great industry on only 15 per cent of tar which is obtained from coal. America, having a larger volume of coal of a better quality, can do everything that the Germans have done, and more.

In addition, a vast improvement is being shown in the transmission of electrical energy over long distances by wire. The transmission of electric power has become entirely too much of a factor to be ignored. We started to get economy by using it inside the factories. We then extended the system to cover cities. Today we are using it over big areas. Great development must be expected in that direction.

It remains for the coal industry to decide whether it is going to supply cheap coal to those who translate the latent energy in coal into electrical energy or whether it will itself translate its own coal into electricity and distribute the product. If the latter decision is reached, coal men must own, by cooperation, the trunk lines which transmit the electric power. And, it might be added, the coal men will own trunk lines or the trunk lines will own the coal mines.

This means to say that the coal industry will soon have to decide whether it is going to continue in the quarrying business and allow others to develop the chemical and electrical power, or whether it will use the quarrying business as a foundation for its own enterprises in these other directions.

The situation is obviously such that coal men must expand into these larger fields. They cannot sell old mines, at a profit, to the electrical companies. The electric companies can own new mines at low cost. The coal industry on the other hand cannot afford to lose this advantage. Also, the coal industry has a peculiar advantage. It has assets which it can readily capitalize.

Even on the present value of its plants—and conceding no value at all to any plants to be erected—the coal industry has uncaptured assets of close to eight billion dollars. With this volume of borrowing power in the present industry, it need not worry about the capital needed to expand into the larger fields. Thus, if the coal industry wants to go into the by-product industry, or the electrical industry, it can readily take its present plants to the bank or to the people and give any quantity of money needed.

The coal industry heretofore has an enviable record in that it gave to America the cheapest power on earth. It was on this cheap power that America won the first place in the industrial world. Low-cost power in future promises to be electrical power. This will be supplied by someone. Whether the coal industry will do it, or whether it will merely supply cheap coal to those who do it, must be for the industry to decide. The opportunities for profit seem, however, too obvious to be ignored.

More Inquiries For Locomotives

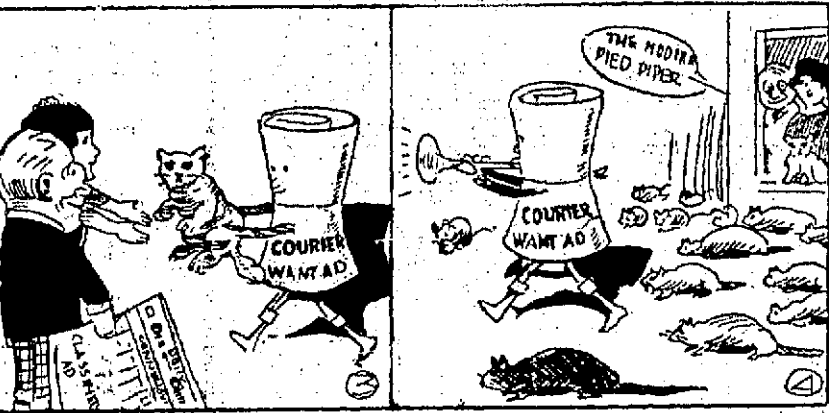

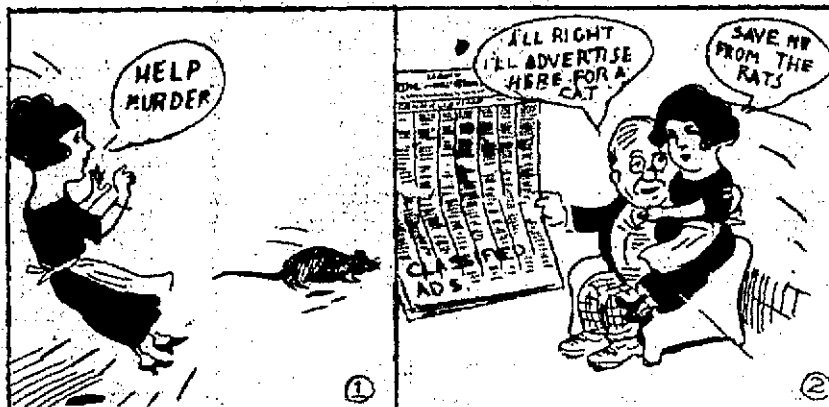

After many weeks of comparative little interest in the equipment market inquiry for 80 locomotives with a value of more than $5,000,000 appeared in the market. The New York Central asked for prices on 60 locomotives, one of the largest orders that have been placed this year, and the Seaboard Air Line made known its desire for 20 new engines. Railway executives declare that these inquiries are in line with the policy of the railroads to continue to improve the condition of their rolling stock despite the decline in business. It was also pointed out that the demand for the market is such at the present time that the railroads may hope for favorable prices on the orders they have to offer.

Division of By-Product Coke Plants and Output

According to data compiled by the United States Geological Survey the number of by-product coke plants owned and operated by furnace interests has grown from 21 in 1913 to 43 in 1922. The commercial plants have increased from 15 to 21 during the same period.

Furnace plant production in 1922 was 9,346,856 net tons, or 73.5 per cent. In 1922 it had grown to 23,889.

702 tons, or 53.7 per cent of the total. Commercial production had increased from 3,367,845 tons, or 23.5 per cent, in 1913, to 4,600,843 tons, or 16.3 per cent, in 1922.

The annual year for the furnace plants was 1920 when 45 plants were in operation producing 25,312,745 tons. For the commercial plants 1918 held the record with an output of 5,873,382 tons.

Says His Prescription

Has Powerful Influence

Over Rheumatism

Mr. James M. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided after years of countless visits that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments, and finally concluded a prescription for quick and complete banishment every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He finally gave his discovery, which he called Allen's, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of visiting he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed his druggists everywhere to dispense Allen's with the understanding that if the first bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. Union Drug Company can supply you.—Advertisement.

What Has Happened to Our Coal Dust?

Coal Age

Nothing the prevalence of explosions, ascribed as they usually are to coal dust, one begins to wonder what subtle change has taken place in the composition and condition of a substance that in early days was believed to be harmless and now is rightly regarded to be a chief cause of disaster.

The change is probably not so much in the dust as in other factors in explosions. True the dust is likely to be drier. We supply more air per man, we have more use in the mines, and this air dries the dust. Our mines are deeper and therefore likely to be drier and a little warmer, the latter development being so slight that it only inconsiderably affects the dryness of the dust and therefore its explosibility. We are mining more extensively in dry, semi-arid and arid regions and in consequence the mines are drier. That doubtless has much to do with the Coal Age explosion and with the disasters at Dawson, N. M., The Western and Middle-Western coals also which are, however, more dangerous dust than Eastern mines.

Still with all these reasons arising from the nature of the dust why are we suddenly confronted with an increase in disasters such as we have had? There have been no thousands of ignorant foreigners on whom we used complacently to place the blame. Our mining population is more stable and experienced than in the past. There can be but two explanations—the minor scale of wages and more gas.

Now that the men are paid for all the coal they mine, large and small, they let powder do the work. They make more slush and dust and they use larger and thus more dangerous shots. But after all, the principal cause of most of the recent explosions is gas. A small gas explosion occurs and is propagated by dust. The trouble is that our mines are gradually getting deeper. They possibly always had a little gas.

Without means to detect it no one knew it was there. Perhaps in some favorable part of the mine it might be induced even to burn. In mines that were closed up the methane emission was so slow and the formation of carbon dioxide so rapid that the mines when opened and not ventilated could be explored with a naked light without an explosion, though not without danger. The mines were said to be non-gaseous. Since then the operators, superintendents and foremen operating these mines have extended them under deeper cover.

Gradually they have become more gaseous but the progress has been slow toward recognizing the mines as really gassy operations. In fact accidents, larger or smaller, have dictated every move—first firebombs, then mixed lights, later abolition of smoking, then searches for matches, later permissible explosives, later closed-light mines and yet again permissible machinery. There are more gradations than those mentioned and some of the changes were rather in the growth of discipline than in methods.

When men from non-gaseous mines went to gaseous they were mostly culpably lax. A superintendent, in a mine, not so many years ago called attention of an editor of this paper to a blowup proceeding from a smokehole and before he could be restrained took a match and lighted it. It took some minutes of vigorous fanning with his cap to put the incipient flame out. Such superintendents are learning every day, but at what needless cost? Times have changed conditions so much that we are wondering if all coal mines should not be rated as gaseous mines even at the risk of being a little unfair to some shallow, sloppy operations. The disasters must come. The industry must soon determine that the rank and file of mines must too a common fate. They are rapidly getting to be gaseous operations and that fact must be realized.
